Update for Parents: 7/5/2020

Dear Parents/ Carers,

We do not have many new updates at the end of this week. However, we wait in anticipation of some kind of announcement from the government on Sunday. Tomorrow is a Bank Holiday, therefore I strongly suggest that your children take a break and enjoy the VE celebrations. Please note: staff are not expected to operate remotely over the weekends and Bank Holidays.

General Updates:

1. We remain open to vulnerable students and to children of key workers Monday to Friday next week.
2. There are no plans to reopen fully at this moment in time. We are working as part of the Lydiate Learning Trust to prepare our reintegration to school, as and when we are given guidance by the government
3. We expect all students to open up their emails at 9.00am to read my message for the day. We also would like them to engage in Mr Ward's challenge and to view our 15 minute exercise guide. It is important that they try new things, have some fun and feel valued during this time of uncertainty for them.
4. I urge you to follow us on our Childwall Twitter account and celebrate the positive work our students are completing.. We have had some lovely comments from the people external to the school, noting the sense of community coming through our social media channels. Twitter: @Childwall acad and Facebook: @ChildwallAcademy

Free School Meals Update:

Unfortunately, there has been a national delay this week in the distribution of codes for free school meal vouchers. This means that we have not received any vouchers to post to you this week. We will process them and post them out as normal as soon as we have the information we require from the Department for Education. * Please note, this will be the start of next week at the earliest.

I wish you all a lovely sunny weekend..

Stay safe,

Ms Vincent
